

6. Beach forest as mapped includes a mosaic of different ages of black and hard beech. Black beech dominates on steep, well drained slopes and hard beech on the gentle clay slopes. The canopy varies in height from 6m in young stands (e.g. 6a) to 15m in mature stands which include secondary and pre-European trees. The understorey is little developed; scattered kamahi reach 7m and there are occasional plants of mingimingi, coprosma lucida, silver tree fern and five finger up to 3m. The ground floor is very open in places where the litter and humus layers have been burnt, and only a few clumps of Astelia solandri and hondia are present. Other areas have a better developed forest floor vegetation if a deep litter and humus layer is present, at such sites hondia's tongue fern and Astelia solandri are common along with kidney fern, Asplenium flaccidum, and filmy ferns.
 7. Plantations of pines, one area at Lowry Bay also contains blue gums.
 8. Broadleaved scrub of mixed canopy composition with five finger, mahoe, rangiora, karamu, Coprosma lucida, heketara, hinanu, red matipo and silver tree fern all common in the canopy. Canopy height ranges from 3m-5m. Understorey is poorly developed; seedlings of hangehange and rangiora are present along with spindly fronds of bracken.
 9. Small area of kohekohe dominant forest in steep gully with mahoe, lemonwood and five finger on slopes.
 10. Small area of tall, mature forest of pukatea and kahikatea in lower reaches of the Lowry Bay catchment. Pukatea and kahikatea reach up to 18m and are emergent over a canopy of mahoe, kamahi, kohekohe, swamp maire, tawa, tiroki, fuchsia and lesser quantities of matai and kanuka. Understorey vegetation consists of abundant kawakawa, hangehange, mahoe, tree ferns and some supplejack. Ferns are common on the forest floor and include hon and chick fern, Pneumatopteris pennigera, Dicranum chamberlainii and B. filiforme.
 11. Small area of secondary tawa trees.
- * Northern rata trees occur as a discontinuous band of tall trees at the head of gullies on rocky outcrops. The ratas are terrestrial and include some very large multi-stemmed species. Some trees are healthy and exhibit full foliated crowns, others appear to be the victims of possum browse. The future of these trees is uncertain.
